Capitol's December 2018 Holiday Flyer Features the Best in Smart Home Controls, Powerhouse AV Equipment

EAGAN, MN, December 3, 2018 – Capitol, the leading consumer electronics distribution source for residential systems and light commercial contractors, launched the second phase of its annual Holiday Flyer program featuring several of the most popular products in the Smart Home, Audio, Video, and Networking categories.

The second flyer of the 2018 holiday selling season features home networking giants such as Google, with the in-demand Google Home Hub, one of the new generation of smart displays that combines the functionality of a voice-controlled smart speaker with a screen for watching videos, browsing recipes, controlling compatible smart home products, and so much more.

For dealers with commercial customers, Capitol is highlighting multiple new AV models, including Onkyo's PCA1120 power amplifier and MCA1120 mixing amplifier.

“Our December holiday flyer focuses the spotlight on products and technologies that represent the promise of the connected home,” said Curt Hayes, President and CFO, Capitol. “In addition, Onkyo is well represented thanks to new models that are applicable to commercial sales.”

Onkyo's MCA1120 Mono Mixing Amplifier can handle a variety of content platforms including Bluetooth and a USB connection for charging, as well as a direct line-in for legacy systems such as CD players. The unit can power both 70V/100V and low-impedance speakers.

The PCA1120 Power Amplifier can work in concert with the MCA1120 or as a stand-alone unit and can also power both 70V/100V and low-impedance speakers. It also comes with a dedicated RCA in/out. (Relatedly, the new Onkyo amplifiers will be the subject of a Capitol webinar on December 11: <https://www.capitolsales.com/Events>.)
