Capitol Adds Cleer Audio Headphones & Speakers to Premium Incentive Brands

Cleer Audio high performance headphones and speakers provide rich sound and are aesthetically appealing.

EAGAN, MN, June 26, 2019 – Capitol, a leading consumer electronics distribution source for the premium incentive market, continues to expand its selection of high-demand consumer electronics products available to the premium channel with the addition of Cleer Audio high-performance headphones and speakers.

“Consumer electronics is consistently the leading product category in the premium incentive market,” said Curt Hayes, President and CFO, Capitol. “Wireless audio is a proven winner when incentivizing staff. Cleer Audio has a stellar reputation among the most demanding audiophiles, along with casual listeners who simply want to enjoy good music from products that complement their lifestyle.”

"We at Cleer are really excited to kick off this new partnership with Capitol to introduce our award-winning products to this channel of business. I've worked with the team at Capitol for many years and I know that together, our products with their relationships will provide industry leading support to the Premium Incentive Channel and to their end-users," said Scott Ashbaugh, Director of Global Sales, Cleer, LLC.

comTwo of the Cleer Audio models Capitol now offers include the ALLY true wireless in-ear and FLOW noise-cancelling over-the-ear models. Both the ALLY and FLOW headphones epitomize the ideal mix of sound, ergonomics, and aesthetic. The ALLY is IPX5-rated for super resistance to dirt and sweat. The FLOW on-ear model features hybrid active noise-cancelling technology and bold high-resolution sonic output.

“Wireless audio and Bluetooth technology in general has come so far as to finally rival the sound of wired models,” added Mr. Hayes. “Cleer Audio is clearly harnessing the potential of the new technology and adapting it for any number of appealing consumer-friendly personal audio products.”
