Capitol Adds LeakSmart to its Selection of High-Performance Networked Products for the Home

LeakSmart Brings Advanced Leak and Flood Protection

By Shutting Off Water Mains within Five Seconds

EAGAN, MN, September 13, 2018 – Capitol, the leading consumer electronics distribution source for residential and light commercial systems, as well as premium incentive resellers, now offers the complete line of LeakSmart products to its customers throughout the U.S.

LeakSmart is revered as the world’s most intelligent and reliable leak and flood protection system for the home. The company is on a mission to protect every home and family from catastrophic water damage caused by devastating leaks and floods. To that end, when LeakSmart senses a leak, it shuts off the water main in less than five seconds, protecting homeowners from devastating water damage and notifying them via the LeakSmart app. Homeowners simply place LeakSmart sensors in basements, garages, laundry rooms, bathrooms, and around HVAC units for whole house protection.

“LeakSmart provides the best imaginable protection from water damage, but its value to the custom professional is much deeper,” said Curt Hayes, President and CFO, Capitol. “Custom professionals and plumbers are in the enviable position of being the most qualified experts to install such a high-performance system, especially when homeowners need to upgrade their network to meet the demands of these and other connected products under their roof.”

Recently, the company introduced LeakSmart Snap, a shut-off valve control that installs without tools or the need to cut into the main water supply. Homeowners can extend protection during power and WiFi outages with the new LeakSmart Hub 3.0, with built-in WiFi and a battery back-up Zigbee system hub that works even when the internet and power is down.
